WITH DIVERSITY, EQUITY, INCLUSION

Healthcare Strategies for Nursing and our Communities

CONFERENCE THEME OVERVIEW

As healthcare continues to evolve, the recognition of Diversity, Equity, and Inclusion (DEI) within nursing is necessary to deliver culturally competent care. DEI gives life to a culture of respect, dignity, and mutual appreciation.

The Future of Nursing 2020-2030: "Charting a Path to Achieve Health Equity," outlines key issues and goals for the nursing profession over the next 10 years, with a particular focus on reducing healthcare inequities and improving health outcomes. COVID-19 exposed disparities that exist within the nation's healthcare delivery system, as low-income and minority communities were particularly hard hit by the pandemic. DEI affects patient outcomes in any area of nursing, and healthcare providers across the nation are making efforts to promote and progress DEI initiatives.

OBJECTIVES

At the end of the educational conference, the participant will be able to:

- Apply the evidence-based concepts to diversity, equity, and inclusivity in our nursing practice.
- Evaluate the importance of diversity, equity, and inclusivity in nursing practice and leadership.
- Identify innovative healthcare strategies to address diversity, equity and inclusivity
